ABSTRACT

This presentation will look in depth at the process, dynamics and challenges of supporting and working therapeutically with children in foster care. The audience will have the unique opportunity of hearing the perspectives of the Agency Supervisor and the Child Psychotherapist as they discuss the case material of a 10-year-old girl including the work and interactions with the child's family, foster family, social worker and other Agency professionals.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. Participants will learn about the dynamics within the child welfare agency when a child is referred for psychotherapy.
2. Participants will learn about the role of the child therapist as an advocate for psychotherapy and in maintaining the child in treatment.
3. Participants will learn about the transference and countertransference reactions arising within the many professionals supporting the child.
